La chiesa di S. Leonardo da Vinci, la cui facciata è stata demolita, era situata nel luogo dove oggi sorge la chiesa di S. Giacomo al Tempio. La chiesa di S. Leonardo era stata costruita nel 1470 su progetto di Leonardo da Vinci, che aveva anche disegnato il campanile. La chiesa era dedicata a S. Giacomo e fu consacrata nel 1472. Nel 1524, durante la Guerra di Lombardia, la chiesa venne distrutta dai francesi. La chiesa di S. Leonardo era una chiesa molto importante per la città di Milano, poiché era la chiesa del convento dei frati domenicani, che erano molto influenti nella città.
